GRAMERCY GHOST TO BE PRESENTED BY LITTLE THEATER IN DECEMBER

Mrs. Caroline Kiefer, production chairman for the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre has returned from a six weeks trip to New York and has brought with her a wealth of material for future theatre productions. "Gramercy Ghost" by John Cecil Holm has been selected as the last play of this season, to be released in the early part of December, the specific date to be announced later.

"Gramercy Ghost" has just been released, it is a brand new play with an unusual slant. The public will be pleased to note that it is a comedy and one which the whole family will enjoy. Sarah Churchill, daughter of the renowned Winston Churchill, starred in the play at the Morosco Theatre on Broadway.

The Bay St. Louis Little Theatre will be the first theatre to produce "Gramercy Ghost" non-professionally. Try-outs for the play will take place on Friday, November 9 at 8 p.m. at the playhouse. The cast requires six men and six women of indeterminate age. This will be the last play of the season so anyone wishing to take part or to try out their talents should make an effort to attend the reading. The play will be under the capable direction of Mrs. Caroline Kiefer, who has been active in the movement since its inception.

It is with deep regret that the Little Theatre membership and officers announce the departure of the theatre's former president, Mrs. Oliver Radford, who will leave soon to take up her residence in Baton Rouge. The vacancy left by Mrs. Radford will be filled by Philip Allison until the expiration of the season. All join in wishing Mrs. Radford and her family much happiness in their new location.

NCCW Convention Held in Biloxi

The Natchez Diocesan Council of the National Council of Catholic Women met on last Saturday and Sunday at the Buena Vista Hotel in Biloxi.

This was the Seventeenth Convention of the NCCW. A reception in the Sacred Heart Academy Auditorium were welcomed by Miss Margaret Pitchford, past president of Natchez, Miss. The theme of the Convention was "The Rosary Crusade—Christian Counterattack" and in two speeches by Bishop R. O. Gerow, members were urged to support the crusade of the family rosary, and reminded that "the family that prays together, stays together."

New officers elected at the convention are Mrs. J. W. Mitchell of Biloxi, president; Miss Mabel Dalzell, Biloxi, re-elected treasurer; Vice-presidents of the organization are the presidents of the different districts of the Natchez Diocese, Mrs. Alden Mauffray of Bay St. Louis serving for the Bay St. Louis District.

On Sunday, delegates attended Sunday Mass at the Church of the Nativity, celebrated by Bishop Gerow.

At the afternoon session, Mrs. Aynaud Hebert, of New Orleans, Provincial Director of the National Council of Catholic Women and noted speaker, reminded the delegates that they must not forget that the keeping and caring of the home and children is not enough, and that women must also train for contributing towards state and national affairs. Mrs. Hebert reminded women of the vastly changed conditions of the present day, and stated that Our Holy Father in addressing 50,000 women, urged them to train for leadership in public life.

At the banquet in the Hurricane room of the Buena Vista Hotel on Sunday evening, both Rev. James Whelan, S. J., of Loyola University, and Rev. Francis Woods, Associate Director of the Family Rosary Crusade, dwelt strongly on the importance of prayer, especially recitation of the Rosary, and spoke interestingly of their experiences in promoting greater interest in the Rosary Crusade.

In concluding his speech, Father Whelan stated Pope Pius XII had appealed to people of every nation to daily recite the Rosary, stating: "with the entire world united in the daily recitation of the Rosary against the impending evils of our day, we will be using a spiritual force that is unconquerable."

Father Woods stated that a national advertising campaign is in formation at present, and it, in conjunction with a great crusade by Catholic men of the nation, will begin in January 1952 when the Rosary Crusade will officially open in the state of Mississippi.

Attending the convention from Bay St. Louis were Mrs. Alden Mauffray and Mrs. G. F. Stevenson.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wentworth and family of Hattiesburg, Miss., spent last week end visiting his mother, Mrs. Daisy Wentworth and Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Hart.

Retired Captain, Local Resident, Dies While Enroute Here, On Boat

Funeral services will be held in New Orleans Thursday for Owen S. Walter, 64, retired sea captain from Bay St. Louis, who collapsed and died aboard a sloop in choppy Lake Pontchartrain Tuesday.

Dr. Nicholas J. Chetta, Orleans parish coroner, said Walter died of a heart attack.

Walter's 18-year-old grandson, Myron W. Hanson, of New Orleans, fought high wind for more than two hours in an attempt to reach shore after Walter collapsed on the deck of the sloop about two miles off New Orleans airport. The wind had ripped a sail and Walter was trying to start the engine when he was stricken, Hanson said.

Walter and his grandson were the only ones aboard the craft, bound from New Orleans to Bay St. Louis.

A rescue boat finally towed the sloop into Municipal Yacht Harbor in New Orleans.

Survivors include his widow, a son, Owen J. Walter, of Houston, Tex.; four daughters, Mrs. A. F. Hanson, New Orleans, and Mrs. L. J. Conner, Mrs. S. S. Logsdon and Mrs. J. O. McIntyre, all of Houston; a brother, James F. Walter, Berkeley, and a sister, Mrs. E. L. Logan, Lafayette.

Mr. Walter was retired and lived with his wife at his home on Main Street.

"Character Dance" At BW Yacht Club Saturday, Nov. 24

Mr. Horace Kergosien, entertainment chairman, of the Bay Waveland Yacht Club announces that the club will hold a "Character Dance" on Saturday night November 24, starting at 9 o'clock. Mr. Kergosien has secured the services of Ricard Alex, Sr.'s band, from New Orleans. Ricard's band is well known along the coast. The famous Papa Celestin has been a member of this band on several occasions and Ricard has also played with Papa's Band.

Prizes will be given for the best lady's and man's costumes. The reason this is a character dance is because everyone likes to dress up once in a while as his or her favorite character—so here's your opportunity, members.

A regular Thanksgiving dinner will be served at the Club that night, at the usual Saturday night price and an additional charge of $1 each will be charged for the dance. If you are contemplating making up a dinner party and having dinner at the Club that night—do get your reservations in as early as possible. If you do not wish to come in for dinner, you may attend the dance at nine o'clock.

There will be a waltz and jitter-bug contest with appropriate prizes and also another feature dancing contest.

But best of all, the board of governors of the Club are very proud to announce that four bonds will be retired that night—you need not be present if your name is called—but think of all the fun of hearing your name called for the retirement of your bond.

So put a ring around the date, November 24, Character dance at BWYC, with Ricard Alex's band from New Orleans.

B-W GARDEN CLUB EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE HOLDS MEETING AT G. F. STEVENSON HOME

The Executive Committee of the Bay-Waveland Garden Club met at the home of Mrs. G. F. Stevenson on Monday afternoon at one o'clock, with Mrs. Oliver Radford presiding.

Mrs. Eugene Mogabgab, chairman of the Flower Judging School gave a report on the school held last week. Mrs. Mogabgab said that while the attendance was smaller than expected the enthusiasm shown by those taking the courses was very high. A deficit of approximately $66 was incurred.

After much discussion, it was moved, seconded and passed that the treasury of the Garden Club absolve that above deficit.

A letter was read from Dean McCulloch of Mississippi Southern College informing the Garden Club members that Bay St. Louis has been selected as the site of a historical marker and that the marker was in the process of being cast at the present time. It was agreed that Mrs. W. W. Baltar's name would be submitted as the person to whom the marker would be assigned and that Mrs. Baltar be given authority to select her own committee who would choose a proper site for the marker and plan proper ceremonies for its installation.

The Executive Committee accepted with much regret Mrs. Oliver Radford's resignation as president; said resignation being necessary because Mrs. Radford was moving to Baton Rouge, Louisiana in the near future. Mrs. W. W. Baltar, as 1st Vice-President was automatically named president and Mrs. P. J. Treutel was appointed as 1st Vice-President to succeed Mrs. Baltar.

The Board was informed that the next regular meeting of the Bay-Waveland Garden Club would be held on Thursday, November 8, at the home of Mrs. E. N. Spence, in Waveland, Miss.

...the two are in high school as a dancing party. They danced like any other youngsters. While still in their teens they entered a dancing contest and for a week they were promptly eliminated. That elimination struck a blow in Vello's pride. With the beautiful Tolson, he began a serious study of dancing. He created new steps and together the young couple practiced them. They entered more contests and lost but finally they won the first prize.

They never lost thereafter. Such determination is the keynote of the Vello philosophy. He, a magna cum laude graduate of the self-thought school of versatility, because so much of their success depended on music, he taught himself to play the piano. Next he began writing songs, mostly tangos and rhumbas. Vello has done all portraits of his four children and sculptured face masks of his adored wife. A beautiful and table and some cabinets in the Vello home in Hollywood attest another self-taught hobby.

The dancer has also raised some beautiful Chihuahuas. Five years ago, he opened a dance studio. He employed 7 persons then. Now he employs hundreds in studios on the Pacific Coast.

Besides his other interests, Vello serves as a consultant for the major movie studios. Like many successful artists he owns a string of houses. But, so far he has been unable to teach himself how to make money with horses. (Nothing strange about the latter.)

...will endorse the law. This was the platform on which Dorothy McCullough Lee was elected mayor of the City of Portland, Oregon. And she has lived up to it.

Mrs. Lee, who frankly admits that she is fifty, (but doesn't look it) has been in politics since she was 27.

She knew it that the Portland Traction Company provided citizens with better trolleys at a cost of $5,000,000. She engineered an attack on mosquitoes, which included a program of spraying. Next she directed her forces against vice which had grown to alarming proportions in Portland. She served notice on gamblers and struck out the slots. As a result of this some of the finest private clubs in the city were deprived of a large slice of revenue.

Her next move was against Chinese gambling and smoking dens. Here she earned the name of "No sin Lee."

A group of ten men and women banded to try to unseat the fiery mayor but an opinion survey proved Mrs. Lee to be more popular than at the time she Henry J. Taylor, author and radio commentator claims that Josef Stalin leads a lonely life in his villa thirty miles west of Moscow.

His health is all right and he is on the job, Mr. Taylor says. Stalin's house is guarded by tall iron festoon gates. It stands in a clump of sycamores on a low wooded hill by the bank of the Moskva River.

From this secluded nest Stalin runs Russia. There is an airstrip nearby, but it is unkempt and seldom used. Stalin doesn't like to fly. There is no anti-aircraft protection around the place.

Stalin drives to the Kremlin only on occasions, and generally at night. This isn't so much for security but because that's the time he works.

When he goes in he makes the 30-minute drive in a short cavalcade, silently and without much fanfare. His own car is a lumbering black limousine with blue glass. No motorcycle escort no sirens accompany him, but plainclothesmen ride in a car ahead and special police who wear light blue bands around their caps keep guard.

Stalin, surprisingly, is only 5 feet, 5 inches tall. He prefers being photographed sitting down—so that his lack of height isn't noticeable. He never walks on a public street. He has been seen close-up by very few Russians, for he never addresses huge throngs like Hitler and Mussolini did.

Stalin gets his ideas and forms his decisions nearly entirely by remote impression. He sees little and knows little at first hand even about Russia itself. He rarely, if ever, visits a Communist farm, mine, or factory.

Except for a few old Bolshevik cronies living close around him in villas of their own, Stalin sees few people in a month than Hitler saw each day, Taylor says.

Lower plane rates will stimulate air travel to Europe. Some 350,000 Americans may visit the continent next year. (The word "may" should be emphasized.)

A brochure from a famous New York establishment tries to interest me in an ingenious inflatable hat umbrella.

The new rain bonnet is made of waterproof vinylite plastic and is quickly inflated to the size of an umbrella. It leaves both arms free for carrying packages and purse.

Folding easily into a hand-sized pack that takes up little room in a handbag, the rain hat is ready in an instant for insurance against wet tresses. The flexible plastic does not crack or peel, even after repeated folding. It also is resistant to mold, mildew, oils, or most chemicals, as well as to tearing and scuffing.

Blowing a few puffs of air into a valve inflates the hat's tubular brim to the diameter of an ordinary umbrella.

It is most attractive, being lined in bright plaid and ties under the chin much the same as a Chinese Coolie hat.

"It's a season of femininity," says a popular fashion magazine, "so do not hesitate to wear a stocking with a clock, a fancy heel or a jewel." If all that I hear on every hand is correct the popularity of a stocking with a "runner" will be more likely. Almost every woman seems to be economy-minded these days. And everywhere, one hears "I am not buying any clothes this winter." If we all stuck to that threat we could do a lot towards defeating inflation.

It seems that the matrimonial bug has bitten several of our lovely young ladies recently. First the announcement of Ervle Socola's engagement and more recently the decision of an attractive young woman known locally to marry a young man from the Dominican Republic. Theirs has not been officially announced so I will not divulge their names. Yesterday, T-F States carried a beautiful picture of Jean Robin with

What do you know about Mississippi's Oil and Gas Industry?
How many Mississippi towns and communities have natural gas service and what is their source of supply?	By September 1951, 160 towns and communities had natural gas service and plans are in progress to serve over 30 others. Approximately 3/5 of the area of Mississippi is served by pipe lines crossing the state carrying gas from Texas and Louisiana to large markets beyond. Mississippi has 6 gas fields to which pipe lines are connected. These fields are supplying many of our towns with natural gas. Long before the development of substantial gas supplies in this state however—in fact, for more than 20 years—we have been getting large amounts of gas from our neighbors in Louisiana and Texas.
Is there plenty of gas for industrial development in Mississippi?	Yes, there is plenty of gas available from pipe lines connected with our own fields and the great gas fields of Louisiana and Texas. Officials of several large and stable industries have recently announced that among the factors influencing their decision to locate in Mississippi was the availability of natural gas at reasonable rates.
Do any Mississippi producers sell their gas to markets outside Mississippi?	Yes, Mississippi gas is being sold to consumers in Louisiana, Alabama, Florida and Georgia.
What about Mississippi's oil and gas conservation law?	Mississippi has what is generally considered to be the most modern and comprehensive oil and gas conservation law of any of the producing states. This law and its enforcement by the State Oil and Gas Board has won wide acclaim throughout the United States. The Board and its staff of petroleum engineers regulate the drilling of new wells and keep a constant check on all producing operations so that the maximum amount of oil and gas will be recovered without waste. This works for the benefit of the state, the landowners and the oil and gas industry. Administrative cost of the conservation law is paid from an extra tax on production.
What is the oil and gas severance tax?	A special tax on production, currently averaging $460,000 monthly. On oil it is 6 cents per barrel or 8% of value, whichever is greater. On gas it is 3 mills per 1,000 cubic feet or 6% of value, whichever is greater. Total oil severance taxes from March, 1944 to July, 1951 amount to $27,915,294.21; total gas severance taxes from July, 1948 to July, 1951 amount to $1,242,265.04.
How do Mississippi taxes on oil and gas compare with other states?	The net tax per barrel paid by Mississippi producers is on a comparative level with Louisiana and is considerably higher than other producing states. Factors causing this are the relatively high severance tax and the state income tax, which does not permit a deduction for "depletion", an allowance which is granted by most oil and gas producing states as well as by the federal government.
How many refineries are there in Mississippi?	At present Mississippi has two refineries, one located near Yazoo City and the other near Laurel. They processed 2,204,952 barrels of crude in 1950. The recycling plants in the Cranford and Brookhaven fields also produce several grades of light oils in the course of their operations.
How can we get additional refineries built in Mississippi?	By encouraging exploration so that more fields and reserves will be discovered necessary to support refineries and by encouraging capital, both inside and outside Mississippi, to invest money in building refineries.
How much did Mississippians receive in royalty payments and lease bonuses and rentals last year?	Approximately $14,000,000.
How many Mississippians are now directly employed by the oil and gas industry? What is the annual payroll?	Approximately 5,000 men and women are directly employed in the production and transmission of oil and gas. The annual payroll of $15,000,000. Hundreds more earn their living through jobs closely connected with the industry.
What can Mississippians do to encourage the expansion of the oil and gas industry?	Like all industries, the oil and gas industry needs more favorable conditions are most favorable. Mississippi's friendly attitude of encouraging industrial development has been an important factor in the rapid expansion of the state's oil and gas industry. In such a friendly atmosphere the industry will continue to develop thereby creating more jobs, more payrolls, more tax revenues and greater prosperity for every Mississippi.

CONGRESSIONAL SIDELIGHTS

By JAMES W. M. COLMER

AND APPROPRIATIONS

The past session of Congress had the honor and the strenuous duty of serving as Chairman of the economy bloc which was organized to accept the President's challenge to his budget. It has been a worthwhile one. We have saved taxpayers' money; running into the millions.

Some of the problems we have been confronted with I quote from a speech made by me last week on the floor of the House as follows:

"Mr. Speaker, if I may have the floor of the committee, I would express very much some member of the Appropriations Committee giving the amount that the Senate increased this appropriation bill."

"REBAUT. According to the answer to the gentleman's question, I would say that the Senate increased the amount $124,150,813."

"COLMER. That is to say that the House has increased the amount by $100,000."

"Mr. Speaker, on yesterday a five percent tax bill, which was some $100 million less than the President asked, was defeated in this House by a majority. No doubt the majority voted against it. I am not sure, but I think it was already overburdened. I thought I am in thorough agreement with the fact that taxes are the only way to finance appropriations. It is popular to vote for appropriations against taxes. But every man in this House knows that you cannot spend without having taxes to cover the expenditures. I call the attention of the House to the fact that we have reached the absorption point of only one answer, and that is the Government to curtail expenditures. We cannot spend and spend and without increased taxes. There is no further retrenchment and economy in the State and National Government. We face national bankruptcy unless we succeed to a marked degree. But it is very disheartening, after all of our labor over here, to see these bills come back from the other body, which is supposedly the more conservative and sober Chamber, invariably with sharp increases."

"I am very much in hopes that this House will recommend this bill and that the House conferees will insist upon the House provisions; thereby saving approximately $125,000,000 of the taxpayer's money. For if it is appropriated we must have more taxes. We cannot eat our pie and keep it, too."

ADJOURNMENT

It is hoped that by the time this appears in print the Congress will have adjourned after almost ten months of continuous session. It will be good for both the taxpayers and the country. According to our custom this column will cease during the adjournment.

INFORMAL PARTY

Mrs. J. W. Hill, Jr. will have another of the small informal parties she has been having on Wednesday afternoon, November 8th. The guests at this party will be Mesdames Eugene Moberg, Max Kohler, B. F. Farrelly, H. A. Thompson, T. J. Boyd, Sr.

Mrs. Hill will combine the beauty of fall flowers with a white Chinese line embroidered cloth on the luncheon table.

WINNER - TV editors tossed a well-deserved bouquet to curvaceous blond Roxanne, assistant to news Bud Collyer on SYLVANIA's "Best the Clock" program (CBS-TV), when they named the statuesque beauty "most photogenic" in a nationwide poll.

DAY HIGH SCHOOL PARAGRAPHS

Since September 12-17 is American Education Week, all persons are invited to visit the school some time during the week and to sit in on as many classes as they may wish to visit. A schedule is being worked up for visitors so that all classes will have more visitors at any one period than it can take care of.

The Junior and senior drama groups will present "The Little Red Schoolhouse" for the P. T. A. at the Tuesday, November 13, meeting.

The play is a well-known comedy that takes place in the classroom of a rural schoolhouse in any village in the U. S. Nobody could possibly sit before this rough house in a schoolroom without giving vent to screams of laughter. Butch Callahan, the toughest boy in the class is always picking on Mayberry Flutts, the weakest boy in the class. Then there is Clarissa Porter, the stuck-up daughter of the head of the School Board; Marigold Talbot, the teacher's pet; Tessie Talent, who gurgles and simmers and "frits" with all the boys, much to the disgust of the other girls in the class; Elsa Schmidt, the dumb little Dutch girl; Flash Graham, the latest boy in the class who sleeps through most of the proceedings; Mary Brownson, the poor teacher who is almost driven out of her wits to mention only a few of the characters.

SPORTS SPOT

Last week the Tigers met defeat at the hands of the Demonstration Demons. Somehow the Tigers just could not get started and lost by the score of 27-6.

Friday night, the local boys play host to Long Beach. This promises to be a very good game as the Tigers fight hard for their second victory. After the game there will be a dance at the Youth Center. Music will be furnished by a hillbilly band. So come one, come all, we'll promise you a good time. Admission will be 50 cents. (stag or drag).

Orchids to Rupert Breland and Kent Seltzer for the splendid cleaning given to the dressing room. Someday, they will make good housewives, we think.

Penny Cole is welcomed back on the line-up this week. Penny has been out for five weeks with a broken ankle.

Billy James, quarter back, will be out for the remainder of this season, but he will be in tip-top shape for the forthcoming basketball season.

In the front yard at twelve, every day, we see Coach Nobles "cleaning up" on marbles. One of these days his luck will run out.

Again, let us remind you to be sure and come to the "Victory" dance after the game Friday night.

The Bay High teachers enjoying Mississippi Southern's Home Coming activities this year were: Mr. S. J. Ingram, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Broadus, Miss Alma Parker, Miss Frances Murphy, and Mrs. Juanita Erwin.

Mr. Ingram was elected as a member of the Executive Committee of Alumni of the Southern District.

Mrs. Erwin, graduate of 1935, was among the group whose class was honored at the luncheon this year.

Leeman McHenry, former Bay High football player, played in the homecoming game and was responsible for two ...of the touch-down by passing.

TEACHER VISITATION

Plans have been made this year for each high school teacher to spend a day observing the work of outstanding teachers in other progressive schools. This teacher visitation is a part of the program of in-service training for the faculty members.

Mr. and Mrs. Broadus took advantage of the local all Saints' holiday and spent the day observing in the Pascagoula high school which was in operation on that day. Mr. Broadus visited classes in mathematics, studied the system of cumulative records and the testing program, and observed the administrative work of the high school principal while Mrs. Broadus visited classes in English and speech and observed a practice session of the high school chorus. Both feel that their visit was very beneficial professionally.

PANEL DISCUSSIONS

Two sections of Mrs. Broadus' English classes made use of the panel discussion for oral work in English Monday. Donald Corb was the moderator in the Junior class with Peggy DeHaan, Jane Wilson, Barbara McArthur, Granison Seltzer, Robert Miller, Donald Patterson, and Edwin Ruhr serving on the panel with him. Rupert Breland acted as recorder, making a written record of the ideas and opinions expressed. The topic used for discussion was "What it takes to hold a job."

In the Sophomore class, Sue Smith served as moderator and Rosemary Vaughn as recorder. Others on the panel were Mildred Adam, Ona Mae Lusich, Gayle Courage, Lois Stoufflet, Lucien Hazlett, Norvin Ross and Lee Klein. The same topic was used for discussion.

The girls were very much distressed on Monday morning when they learned that Miss Hilda Bearden, physical education director, would have to be out for at least two weeks due to illness. Miss Bearden was found to be near a complete breakdown. It will be necessary for her to visit the doctor every other day for treatment as well as to get plenty of rest. We are wishing for her speedy recovery. In the meantime her work is being carried on very capably by Miss Sybil Koeniger.

oyette and Lake Charles was steady at Laurel, Miss., Gulfport and Greenwood. Average price of center cut was $1.10 a pound.

Beef was still high and hard to find. It climbed two cents to $1.11 (round steak) at Lake Charles but stayed around $1.08 in other cities. "No beef" was the standard answer to meat requests in New Orleans.

Fresh eggs had a noticeable rise in New Orleans where they reached 83 cts a dozen but were steady elsewhere. Eggs have made a general climb during the past six weeks.

In fresh vegetables, cabbage was steady at seven cents, lettuce at 13 cts and carrots at two bunches for 19 cents. Potatoes hung around six cents a pound. Butter eased off two cts to 76 cents a pound at Lake Charles and averaged about 78 elsewhere ranging up to 85 for the best grades.
